

THE LIBERACY

THE LIBERAL DEMOCRACY

Website:- www.theliberacy.com

Mail:- mail@theliberacy.com

Facebook.com: fb/theliberacy

Instagram:- @theliberacy

Twitter:- @theliberacy

Short Story - In my marriage, I chose my career over the motherhood.

It was Sunday evening and we were at our favorite restaurant for dinner. It was kind of a ritual for us to have dinner at this place every Sunday, but today was different, it was special. Today we got the report that said, I was pregnant and this made Aakash really happy.

Continued on page 2

INS Vikramaditya under Fire, One officer dead.

Karwar (Karnataka), April 27, 2019, The Libera-cy:- INS Vikramaditya, on Friday entered the harbor in Kanwar, Karnataka. It was against time when the INS caught fire onboard, costing the valuable life of Lt. Cdr. D. S. Chauhan. Lt. Cdr. D. S. Chauhan was leading the firefighting efforts in the affected...

Continued on page 3

Blast at TATA Steel in UK.

Port Talbot (Wales), April 27, 2019, The Libera-cy:- A total of three blasts were reported at the Indian company TATA Steelworks in its UK plant, injuring 2 people, according to the local media reports.

The blast was clearly heard by the locals at around 03:35 on the morning of 26th April. Locals reported that the...

Continued on page 3

Marsquake : Sol 128 had NASA cheer in joy.

April 28, 2019, The Libera-cy:- National Aeronautics and Space Administration's robot to Mars, Insight Lander, has recorded "Marsquake" on its Sol 128.

Insight Lander's Seismic Experiment for Interior Structure (SEIS) recorded a faint seismic signal on April 6, 2019, that Lander's 128th Martian Day. Insight Lander was placed on the planet on December 18, 2018.

The trembling recorded was so small, that it could have been neglected if it was on earth. Mar has the most silent atmosphere, so a small deflection can be recorded;

Insight Lander Seismometer which detected the Marsquake.

whereas on earth, due to wind, tidal waves and other sounds, such trembling is never even considered.

Mars and Moon do not have tectonic plates, but still, they experience quakes like these due to climate temperature range and contraction caused by it. Three other signals were also recorded on March 14, April 10 and April 11, but those signal were smaller than the one of April 6.

The people at NASA were so excited by this event and some of them even said that they have been waiting for such an event for months and now that they have the data, they will initiate for the complete study of the "Marsquake."

Visa Sanctions on Pakistan by the United States of America.

April 29, 2019, The Libera-cy:- On Saturday, the US added Pakistan to its list of 10 countries that refuse to take back its citizens for over-stay on Visa.

The sanction on Pakistan was imposed under a US law that might ban Pakistani citizens from the Visa to the US.

The US said, that the Pakistani government has refused to take back the deportees and visa over-stayers in America. The State Department even said that Pakistan has remained "Unchanged" even after informing several times.

Pakistan International Airlines

The United States has a list of such countries that refuses to take back the deportees. This list includes Ghana, Guyana, Gambia, Cambodia, Eritrea, Guinea, Sierra Leone, Burma, and Laos. The newest and 10th member to join the league is Pakistan.

Pakistan has been facing criticism on several fronts, including terrorism and support to terrorism. The new Imran Khan government has been blamed for the failure, that eventually occurred over a period of two decades.

Short Story - In my marriage, I chose my career over the motherhood.

It was Sunday evening and we were at our favorite restaurant for dinner. It was kind of a ritual for us to have dinner at this place every Sunday, but today was different, it was special. Today we got the report that said, I was pregnant and this made Aakash really happy. He was in the parking lot looking for a nice place for the car and I was looking at him from a distance standing near the entrance to the restaurant. I noticed that Aakash had a different smile today and I was happy looking at him but nonplussed me was gathering myself to make him lose his smile.

"Come Riya," he said opening the door. "Reservation under the name Aakash Negi." Aakash enquired standing in front of the receptionist.

"Mr. & Mrs. Negi." he prompted. "Yes sir, your table will be ready in 5 minutes. You can wait on that couch till then." the receptionist said.

We walked down some steps, Aakash was holding my left hand firmly and sat really close to me on the couch as if he was afraid of losing me. He was a bit more caring than usual. I liked him this way even more. "You look, tense baby. Is there something?" he asked.

"No," I said with a smile. We were to mark 3 years of our marriage next month and in all these years, Aakash took care of me really well, it was like a father taking care of his daughter. Cannot be explained. My caring husband.

"Sir the table is ready." the receptionist said as I was about to say tell Aakash everything.

He pulled out the chair for me like a true gentleman, which he was for sure. Immediately the waiter came and stood next to our table with a bottle of wine to which Aakash said "No."

"What happened?" I asked looking at him as he denied the wine.

Aakash loves to drink. I came to know this while we were pursuing our engineering. He was my classmate then my boyfriend and now my husband.

"I'll not drink."

"Why?"

"We are expecting our first baby and I have this thing," he said with little hesitation. "What thing?" I asked, looking in his eyes.

"It's kind of childish,"

"Are you going to say?" I said giving him a stern solid look.

"It's more like a deal I made with God today, that I want our baby to be a girl and in return, I will stop drinking," he said with a blush and the biggest smile.

I simply smiled looking at him and wondered how deep his emotions were and cursed myself for making a decision.

Food was on the table and I gathered all my courage, "Aakash, I don't want this child," I said like a crass.

"What?" he was surprised. Admonitory in his voice.

"I never wished to have kids," I said looking at his confused face.

"But you were happy with this, right?"

"No. That day even you told me to take contraceptive pills to avoid the unwanted pregnancy and now you suddenly want this child the most."

"You understand what you are saying, Riya?" he said. "You are suggesting me to kill our baby," he added.

"Don't make it sound so harsh Aakash. I always wanted to excel in my career, my job, and everything. Being a mother is the last priority for me because these things stop my goals." I said, almost choking. Without saying another word, Aakash pushed his chair and got up to leave and left the car keys on the table for me. I wasn't able to control and hold myself and eventually cried. I sat there on the chair like a statue for an hour with four more tables around me, people looked at me contemplating the case.

I didn't call him. I simply drove myself home. The door was still locked, Aakash wasn't home yet. I turned the keys and pushed the door.

Am I being selfish here? Questions flooded my mind after seeing the empty house. I can completely understand the ire but he too needs to understand me. I need time. I went to the bed without changing into my nightgown and this time I fell asleep with the wet pillow.

"Work until your sweat is wet enough"

It was 2 in the morning and I sensed Aakash pulling up the sheets over me, I hugged him and rested my head on his chest, his shirt was wet from the tears. I didn't look at his face nor did he tried to, we sensed our pains and rested in each other.

INS Vikramaditya under Fire, One officer dead.

Lt. Cdr. D. S. Chauhan

INS Vikramaditya

Karwar (Karnataka), April 27, 2019, The Liberacy:- INS Vikramaditya, on Friday entered the harbor in Kanwar, Karnataka. It was against time when the INS caught fire onboard, costing the valuable life of Lt. Cdr. D. S. Chauhan.

Lt. Cdr. D. S. Chauhan was leading the firefighting efforts in the affected compartment of INS Vikramaditya, where he lost his consciousness due to the high level of smoke and fumes. He was immediately taken to the Naval Hospital at Karwar, INHS Patanjali, but could not be revived.

Navy in its statement said that the fire was brought under control preventing it from damaging the ship's combat capability. An investigation team has been appointed, which will be inquiring on the conditions that led the fire and reports will be submitted to the court of inquiry.

Blast at TATA Steel in UK.

TATA Steel Logo.

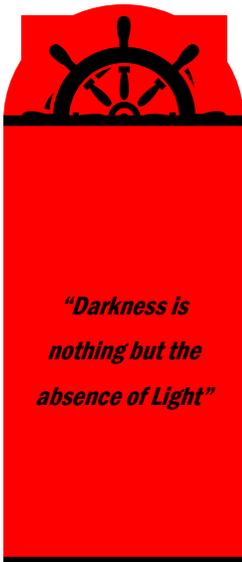

Port Talbot (Wales), April 27, 2019, The Liberacy:- A total of three blasts were reported at the Indian company TATA Steelworks in its UK plant, injuring 2 people, according to the local media reports.

The blast was clearly heard by the locals at around 03:35 on the morning of 26th April. Locals reported that the blasts were so strong that their houses shook for a bit.

The police said, that they received calls at 03:55 am reporting explosions, to which the department was quick enough to act and emergency services were in attendance at the location.

TATA Steel spokesperson of the plant said, that the fire has been extinguished and that an investigation probe has been initiated for full details of the incident.

They further added the supposed reason for the fire, saying that the fire took wave after the liquid spillage of the molten metal that was being carried to another space.

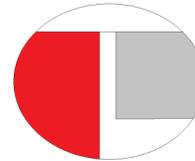

THE LIBERACY

Website:- www.theliberacy.com
Mail:- mail@theliberacy.com
Facebook:- www.facebook.com/theliberacy
Instagram:- www.instagram.com/liberacynews
Twitter:- www.twitter.com/theliberacy
Tumblr:- @theliberacy

www.theliberacy.com

The Liberacy is an Indian News agency, established in 2019 and ever since then, it is working for the betterment of the contents shown and circulated in India and around the world. The Liberacy believes in a democracy that is Liberal with its thoughts.

Logo of The Liberacy describes the balance between the two kinds that exist in society. Red is for the extreme and angry population, while Grey is for the calm and emotionless; and the white in-between these two opposite poles describe peace. They believe that it is possible to establish peace among the two sides of the world with its content and words.

PUBG earned $920 million last year.

April 24 2019, The Liberacy:- Player Unknown's Battleground (PUBG) is a gaming platform that includes random gamers around the globe in the same window. Despite of all the negative marketing, PUBG has shown some of the most shocking revenue models in 2018.

Player Unknown's Battleground Publisher and its studio PUBG Corp. announced its full financial report for 2018 and the report reveals the digit amount of $920 million of total revenue. Out of the $920 million, $310 million were earned in profit.

PUBG remains to be on the top charts for every platform. It has more than 100 million downloads on Google Play Store alone. Officials say that despite of being the most popular game on the mobile platform, PUBG has earned low revenues because Tencent developed and distributed the mobile version.

PUBG In-Game Screenshot.

Rest to that, if the profits were to be divided according to the region it is being played in, Asia alone contributes 53% of the total revenue i.e is roughly equal to $487 million.

Platform	Revenue
PC	$790 million
Mobile	$65 million
Console	$58 million
Other sources	$6 million